This Aston Martin comes with a very well documented previous history from the time in the USA (80-ies and early 90-ies) when the owner tried to restore his DB2 through lots of correspondence with specialists in the UK. The DB2 did not progress that much during all those years because finally the car is sold and arrives partly restored in the Netherlands. The chassis, the aluminium body and lots of pieces have already been taken care of. Now this project with a lot of potential awaits a new owner in our specialised classic car workshop. It is common knowledge in the classic car world that we have the expertise to bring this worthwhile project finally to a happy end. The rarity and quality of this model and the actual values on the classic car market should convince an Aston Martin enthusiast to seize this opportunity with both hands !
